

Laika

Bitten by a rattlesnake
and needs your help.

Trying to raise $1,400 to $2,800 so Laika can stay on the antivenom

Laika is a much, much loved Rhodesian Ridgeback who was bitten by a rattlesnake on April 10th. He has been given antivenom, fluids, antihistamine, anti-inflammatory drugs and a plasma transfusion. His condition is critical. He has been shuttling back and forth between the emergency hospital and the regular vet. According to his regular vet, the prognosis without treatment would be death. With treatment Laika is expected to make a full recovery. He needs several more days of antivenom treatment. The cost of this is $700/day.

The Los Angeles family of four is struggling with very little income and can not afford these high vet expenses.....they desperately need our help!

This is what the Mom had to say about Laika: "He's loved so much by us all: myself, my husband and our two children a boy of 7 and a girl of 10. We call him Baby Laika because he's the smallest "child" in the family.....it's his birthday tomorrow and we've had him since he was 10 weeks old. "He is with us almost everywhere: he walks the kids to school in the morning and when I pick them up; he watches our son play soccer Saturday mornings and he sleeps in our daughter's bedroom at night. My daughter has Asperger's Syndrome and on countless occasions we have found the two of them asleep together in bed. They are extremely close and have the most wonderful relationship. We are all walking around restless with broken hearts in a house that is too quiet without Laika."
